Let's Start!

Mmm ... barbecue! There are a lot of people here! Who are they?

Learning Outcome

Accurately use basic information in simple situations.

Ask your partner:

- Who eats with you?
- What do you talk about?

Can Do Statements

- I can express quantities using words like much and many.
- I can express how far or how near objects are using these and those.
- I can express commands.

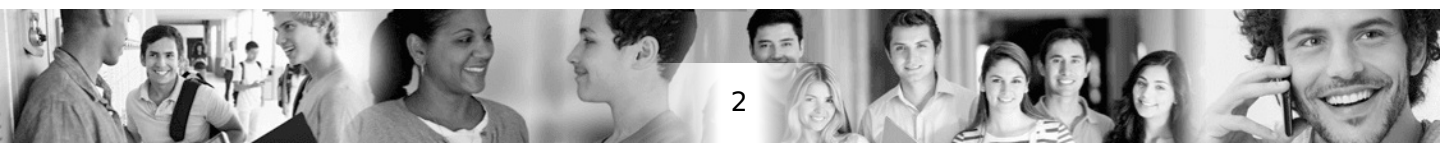

Let's Explore!

Karen loves burgers. How many can she eat?

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Karen: Great barbecue, Jason! There are so many people! There is so much food here!
- Jason: My mother loves barbecues with lots of people.
- Karen: Who are all these people?
- Jason: Those three girls over there are my sisters. Oh, and these two people beside us are my parents.
- Karen: Hello, Mr. and Mrs. Watson.
- Mrs. Watson: Nice to meet you.
- Karen: These are the best burgers! Can I have a second?
- Mrs. Watson: Sure. Eat all you want. Meet a lot of people. Make new friends! See you again later.
- Karen: Can I come here again next Saturday?
- Jason: No problem.

Let's Practice!

Let's look at these and *those.

*"These and those" = more than one.

Instructions: Write in the missing words. Use these or those correctly. Use capital letters where necessary.

1. Whose are _____ books on this table?
2. Who are all _____ people in here?
3. Who are all _____ people over there?
4. _____ two people here are my parents.
5. _____ girls over there are my sisters.

Let's Practice!

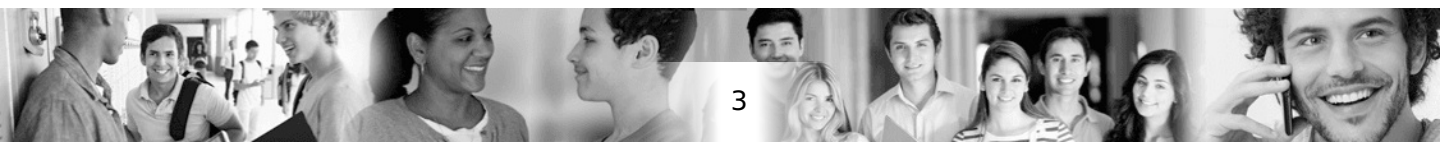

Let's go to the party!
